Keynote Speaker

Kate Wall

Visiting Research Fellow (Early Years/SEN)

Having worked across schools and early years settings for around twenty years I moved into Universities in 1999. With the exception of two years, my career has involved supporting young children with additional needs and their families, hence my writing focuses on this area. I am a practitioner at heart and will continue to fight the case for young children with additional needs, their families and professionals through my work (even though I'm semi-retired). I am passionate about my work and hope to continue for many years to come via my writing, conferences and networks.
